PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Misinformation and biased legislation across the country leads to implicit bias towards transgender youth. Information in many medical schools still contains many inaccurate assumptions and teaching around LGBTQ+ care in general and the connection of HIV status with the LGBTQ+ community. At the third installment in the UCSF Fresno Health Equity Symposium series, clinicians will be exposed to gender affirming care for this population: What it is and how crucial it is to gender expansive and transgender youth.

OBJECTIVES

1. Understand how gender affirming care for transgender youth differs from that of transgender adults and ways to support patients
2. Understand why this population is exceptionally at risk in the current legislative climate
3. Recognize the ways stigmatization still plagues the LGBTQ+ population especially in patients with HIV and methods to avoid stigmatizing patients
4. Appropriately ask about and document SOGI (sexual orientation and gender identity) data

TARGET AUDIENCE

This course is designed for primary care/family practice physicians, allied health care professionals, social workers, residents, fellows, and students.
